Kansas City Attractions Unveil New Offerings for Spring and Summer Visitors and Area Residents

(Kansas City, Missouri) – As visitors begin planning for upcoming vacations, several members of the Greater Kansas City Attractions Association (GKCAA), are planning special events, opening special exhibits, unveiling new additions to their line-up of activities, and scheduling festivals, celebrations, and performances for visitors and locals during the summer season. GKCAA is a not-for-profit organization that provides benefits and services to more than 70 attraction and tourism-related businesses in communities near Kansas City on both the Kansas and Missouri sides of the State Line.

“As the weather warms up and summer approaches, visitors should know that the next several months are a great time to visit Kansas City and experience everything it has to offer,” said Mike Vietti, Director of Marketing, Communications and Guest Services for the National World War I Museum and Memorial, who serves as the 2018 President of the association’s volunteer-led board of directors. “Our members offer a variety of opportunities that visitors and locals alike will enjoy over the next few months.”

National World War I Museum and Memorial

Images of the Great War: America Crosses the Atlantic

Now through May 13, 2018

Focusing on the final two years of the Great War with the emphasis on American involvement, Images of the Great War: America Crosses the Atlantic features works by French, British, German and American artists who attempted to capture the harsh realities of the incredibly brutal war. Theworldwar.org

Posters as Munitions

Through September 30, 2018

Soon after the outset of World War I, the poster was recognized as a means of spreading national propaganda with unlimited possibilities. Posters as Munitions, 1917 showcases the depth and breadth of the collection through a series of works on exhibition for the first time at the Museum. Posters from France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, the United States and more are featured, providing a sense of the global nature of this form of communication.

Crucible 1918

April 3, 2018 – March 10, 2019

For the Doughboys on the Western Front, 1918 was their year. It was the crucible where the American land forces forged their fighting force. They fought alongside their main allies: the British Empire, French, Italians, Czechs and the White Russians from Cantigny to Belleau Wood to the Champagne Region, the Piave River to the Marne to St. Mihiel to the Meuse Argonne to Vladivostok. This exhibition is not an illustration or timeline of how the 1918 battles were fought, rather it focuses on individuals and their lives and deaths in the crucible of 1918.

National World War I Museum and Memorial

For Liberty: the American Jewish Experience in WWI

June 29 – Oct. 28, 2018

The exhibition explores how three key events of 1917—America's entry into World War I, the Bolshevik Revolution, and the issuing of the Balfour Declaration, in which Great Britain indicated support for a Jewish homeland in Palestine—brought about political, cultural, and social changes that dramatically reshaped the United States' role in the world and provoked its most stringent immigration quotas to date. Among many objects, visitors have the rare opportunity to view two original drafts of the Balfour Declaration, the Medal of Honor posthumously awarded to Jewish WWI soldier William Shemin, Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis's judicial robes, a postcard written by a young Golda Meir, a page from the original Johnson-Reed Act of 1924, and much more.
